GREAT PALACES AND GARDENS OF BOHEMIA AND MORAVIA

The Czech Republic, comprising the historic provinces of Bohemia and Moravia has one of the richest concentrations of great houses in Europe, many with significant gardens, including some of European importance and UNESCO World Heritage listed. In the Renaissance the country was a powerful and wealthy independent kingdom and we shall see some of the magnificent palaces and villas with associated gardens created by the nobility during this period. Later Bohemia and Moravia became a part of the mighty Austrian Habsburg Empire and during the 17th and 18th centuries there was a building and gardening boom as the aristocracy built summer seats and grand hunting lodges in the Czech lands as well as creating palatial town houses with gardens in Prague and Vienna. We shall visit some outstanding Baroque gardens from this period, including Kroměříž (UNESCO World Heritage). Whereas at this time Italy and France were the major influences on garden design, in the late 18th and 19th centuries the nobility were much influenced by developments in Britain. The result is the creation of numerous romantic landscape gardens in the English style, of which the greatest is the remarkable landscape garden at Lednice in South Moravia, which we shall visit, now an UNESCO World Heritage site.

The Czech Republic suffered greatly during the Communist regime (1948-1989) and many of the country's magnificent buildings and gardens were neglected and abused. However the last forty years has seen an astonishing programme of restoration both in country houses and gardens, so it is a propitious and exciting time to visit. Our programme will include gardens of all periods, as well as visits to some of the most important châteaux. Additional delights we shall enjoy are the many picturesque unspoilt little towns and the quiet beauty of the deeply forested undulating countryside.
